In probability theory and statistics, the generalized extreme value (GEV) distribution is a family of continuous probability distributions developed within extreme value theory to combine the Gumbel, Fréchet and Weibull families also known as type I, II and III extreme value distributions. We consider a random variable x and a data set $S = \{x_1, x_2, \dots, x_n\}$ of size n which contains possible values of x . The data set can represent either the population being studied or a sample drawn from the population. The mean is the statistic used most often to characterize the center of the data in S . We now consider the following commonly used measures of variability of the data around the ...
